

"Once again my wife & I enjoyed a theatre night with the Centenary Group. We attended Friday night's performance, thoroughly enjoy ourselves and shared laughs with the audience. It was a very funny script, well cast, well played and well directed ... We look forward to attending more Centenary Theatre productions next year" Malcom & Eileen MacLean (Audience members) - 5 December 2003

"All the elements are there - some nice characterisations, a well-designed set and some great costuming - but it just seems under-rehearsed ... That being said from a reviewer's point of view, the success or failure of a production largely rests upon whether the audience enjoys it, and the comic situations certainly got plenty of laughs from the full house the night I went. The British farce, no matter what the critic thinks of it, is always a crowd pleaser." Andrea Carne (Review, Stagediary.com) - 30 November 2003
